"THE MAN OF GALILEE"

Was the Topic of Last Evenings' Lecture.

GEORGE R. WENDLING

Proves a Most Entertaining Speaker.

Last Lecture on the Course Proved to be One of the Very Best of the Whole Series.

A lecture which surpassed even the greatest expectations and entranced a large audience from its beginning to end was the eloquent lecture of George R. Wendling, one of the foremost platform magnets of America, who appeared at Epworth M. E. Church last night as the seventh and last number on the Y. M. C. A. lecture course.

"The Man From Galilee," a lecture vastly different from any written in the last two centuries, and yet one that has gained unbounded popularity, painting new impressions upon the minds of hundreds of audiences, was the one delivered by the great orator last night. Wendling soared into the heights of real oratory and imparted thrilling eloquence and elevated ideas. He spoke in a clear, silver-toned voice adding to his great subject, a pure and clear style.

Wendling's lecture, that is the real thought and its effect upon the audience, cannot be transferred to paper. He said in the beginning, "Regardless of what the form of government may be, man will never be democratic. We want, always have wanted—a king. You say the day of kings is over, but never can that be. Human nature is so constituted that spirit must work upon spirit and there must be leaders of men-kings. The real kings come as often from the humble peasant as from the higher life. Kings are born and not made."

"Some nineteen hundred years ago" said the speaker, "Galilee was the most densely populated country in the world, and it was in this land that the Man of Galilee was born." Wendling portrayed in vivid word pictures the lay of the country, describing it a grand, beautiful garden, a country fair. "It was here among these beautiful hills that was spoken a sermon, determined to live through out eternity—the sermon on the mount. The preacher was called a reformer, and many scoffed at Him as they do the reformers of any age.
He was not a reformer, but the fairest among thousands, a star to mankind, a real king come to save the world. He came to establish a kingdom with Him, Himself, King."

Continuing, Mr. Wendling drew powerful comparisons between the Man of Galilee, and man. "Men rate each other, are selfish towards each other; they may eat at the same table, share each other's meal and associate together, but they will never love each other. The Man of Galilee loved all mankind. He was free from jealousy. He came to establish a kingdom, without followers, without armies, without oratory or spectacular images, but he came to found a kingdom on love.
It was a wonderful ambition, a remarkable undertaking and it might have been called a dream, had it not been for the great fact—He succeeded."

"Born in obscurity, simply a working man, yet he posed as a prince of most royal nature. He possessed astounding egotism. His self assertion was unparalleled in the historical annals of the world. Yet He was unselfish and his attitude to women, always tender and kind, is the highest tribute to that sex that has ever been paid."

"It is an easy thing to give away money when you have plenty, but have, so free yet scarce, is the only thing that you can give that makes clean hearts and clean hands," declared the lecturer. "The Man of Galilee gave His love. He sacrificed everything for the love He bore man.
He was courageous and a truly manly man."

The lecturer referred to the moral side of the Galilean. "There was no defect, no imperfection. He was the man and the only man who combined all nature. His parables were founded on the most common of subjects such as birds, trees, valleys, hills, sheep, twigs, leaves, etc., and yet with these subjects He wrote parables that could not be bettered by the magnanimous soul of a Shakespeare. Why has there been in all history no man like Him?
You can't even imagine another creature like Him."

"Was this man of Galilee an invention? Not a single point of imperfection can be disclosed. He was perfect and to invent a perfect being the inventor must be perfect. He was supernatural. His sentences hang like banners in the air to guide all mankind."

Continuing, the lecturer drew a picture of the death upon the cross and in this wonderful description the speaker remarked, "Invent all this? Why the inventor of that could speak a universe into existence."

In concluding, Mr. Wendling remarked that he was grateful for the rapt attention given him, but that he had only told the old, old story in a new way.

The speaker was introduced by Rev. G. M. Rourke, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

OBITUARIES

After bearing the burden of life for an unusually long allotment of years, Mrs. Celia Metz Thomas passed away at the home of her son, Wm. Thomas at Cochranton, on Monday eve, March 11th, 1907.
She was born in Marion County, West Virginia, Feb. 8th, 1817, being 90 years 1 mo 3 days of age.
After spending her early life in West Virginia she came to this county in 1823, being among the oldest of the pioneer families in this community. She was married to Philip W. Thomas and to them were born six sons, James, Milton, William, John, Ebert Granville and Henry. Mrs. Thomas had her share of sorrow as well as of joy, for her husband and two sons, Granville and Henry passed into the life beyond many years ago. Through all the trials of her life, however, she was sustained by her faith in the living God, and the belief that only good can come to those that love the Lord. She united with the Methodist Episcopal church in 1868, under the pastorate of Rev. Joshua Longfellow. She has ever been a true christian and her membership in the church on earth has only been removed to the church around the church of God. Her last years were passed in the safe shelter of her son's home where she has lived for several years. Her last illness was of short duration. She signified her willingness to lay down this life and enter into the triumph beyond the gates.
She more the hinges slowly turn and a soul enters as the master's guest.
Whose voice has ever been its guide And the Master's voice is saying now,
"Blessed are they who in me abide."
Funeral took place at Cochranton March 14th, 1907. Rev. J. C.
Sinclair of the Agosta Methodist Episcopal church officiating.

William Irvin Harper was born in Ridgeville, Lorain county, Ohio, July 15, 1830, and died at his home near DeCliff, Feb. 27, 1907, aged 76 years, 7 months, 12 days. He was the second son of James and Hannah Blakesly Harper. He married Sophia E. Miller and to this union were born two daughters, Mrs.
Laura Powell, of Palestine, Ill., and Mrs. Hannah Corey, of DeCliff, O.
He leaves a wife, an aged brother and sister, two daughters, five grand-sons and three grand-daughters and a host of relatives and friends to mourn his departure.
He was a kind husband and most indulgent parent.

The voice I loved is still,
The light is gone from home,
And I am left in sorrow, Heartbroken and alone.

Mr. Harper lived in such a manner that his neighbors respected and loved him. He believed in God, and in the doctrine expressed in 2 Cor. 5:10: "For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; that everyone may receive the things done in His body, according to that He hath done, whether it be good or bad."

May the integrity of His life, the love of truth and honesty, the kindly manner and spirit be multiplied in the lives of His children and grandchildren. We go this way but once.
May our lives be filled with those thoughts and deeds that favor god-liness and life immortal.

The funeral took place at the home near DeCliff, March 1st, 1907. The pastor of Agosta M. E. Church, Rev. J. C. Sinclair officiated. Interment took place at Pleasant Hill cemetery.

The bereaved wife and family hereby desire publicly to thank their neighbors and friends for their assistance and kindness, in this, their hour of bereavement.

If you stop to figure out where the true economy in paint buying comes, you'll soon see that the best paint is cheapest.

Two-thirds the cost of painting is the labor. It costs just as much to put on poor paint as it does good paint—more in fact because the poor paint doesn't work so easily.
But the poor paint won't last as long; it makes you repaint sooner.

Even the apparent saving in cost per gallon is eaten up by the fact that it takes more gallons of the low priced paint.

The true economy is good prepared paint.

The truest prepared paint is THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINT.
